Financial Review

NEW YORK, December 17. Events of the week in financial circles were quite important. The money market was easier than last week. During the early part of the week commissions of 1-64 of 1-32, in addition to legal rates had to be paid for loans, but commissions gradually disappeared and money was accessible at 5@6 per cent, during the latter part of the week, with exceptions as low as 3 per cent. Exchange was dull and unchanged. Government bonds were active and higher, but were subsequently slightly affected by the discussion of refunding in congress, Railway and mi-cellaueous speculation was dull until near the close, and fluctuations in leading shares were as a rule slight, and only prominent features of the market were sharp. There was an advance in southern railroad shares and a general decline in the usually active stocks in the late transactions. The Denver & Rio Grande declined 151 per cent, under great pressure to sell, which affected the whole market unfavorably, and brought prices down in the general list from 2 to 5 per cent. There was some rallies and reactions from these figures in MONEY. Money c'osed at 3 per cent. and at no time to-day did borrowers pay over 6 per final dealings.

Pacific railroad bonds closed as follows STOCKS. The stock market to-day was very active, blocks of stocks changing hands. A feature of the day's dealings was the Denver & Rio Grande, which fluctuated widely, selling down to 66 from 75 1, and recover ing to 701. Something over 105,000 shares of this stock alone changed hands. The general market was weak and closed feverish, with prices at or near the lowest of the day.

He is Indicted on Charge of Threatening Judge Dundy.

Something Interesting Concerning His Marriage Relations.

Mrs. Arndt Makes a Statement in Her Husband's Behalf.

The grand jury, which has been occupied for the past two weeks in investigation of the Smith murder, adjourned Fri- tiring worker, enthusiastically devotday until Tuesday next, without action in the matter. They found two indietments against August Arndt, the man ality with whom he has come in conarrested on Thursday evening, charging, tact. him with having menaced and intimidated Judge Dondy. What the ac-

A gentleman who formerly resided in of THE BRE the following statement concerning the prisoner Arndt, and his wife "Wm. Edwards took up his residence in Cresco, Iowa, about 1867. His wife was the present Mrs. Arndt. In 1873 Edwards obtained a divorce from her on the grounds of irregularity. Mrs. Edwards had, by this time, become somewhat notorious, and after Edwards obtained a divorce from her she engaged in keeping a disreput ble house. She subsequently married a man named Baker, who soon left her, and then she was married to one or two other mes, each of whom deserted her after living with her three or four months. In 1876 the court house in that county burned, and all of the records every case or money refunded. Price. were destroyed in the fire, among which was this decree of divorce obtained by Edwards.

"Arndt first appeared there about Janu-Ship'ts.

Arndt first appeared there about January, 1880. About the first of February, 1880. Edwards, who had lived by himsef after seperating from his wife, was found dead in his shop his hands and feet tied together and a strap from a hook above around his neck. The coroner's jury rendered a variet of suicide. As soon as Edwards was dead Mrs. Edwards came forward with a claim for his came forward with a claim for his property, which amounts to seventeen or eighteen thousand dollars. Other heirs of Edwards in England, among whom were Wm. Edwards, a nephew, and Sarah Lane, Win. Edwards, a nepnew, and Sarah Lane, a dister of the deceased contested the claim of Mrs. Edwards upon the ground of the divorce, and contended that Edwards was murdered instead of committing suicide. They also offer d a thousand dollars' reward for the conviction of the murder or,

"About three weeks after Edwards was found dead Arndt and Mrs. Edwards were married and Arndt remained in and about Cresco during most of the spring and sum-mer of 1880, taking an active part in the contest over the property. Mis Edwards (now Mrs. Arndt) was finally defeated in her claim for the estate, and Arndt carried the case for her to the supreme couct, where it is now awaiting argument.
While Arndt was in Creaco
he made himself obnexious to many people on account of his ugly temper, and upon one occa-ion it is known that he become engaged in an altercation and drew a knife on a man. He is generally regarded about there as a dangerous man to oppose or

MRS, ARNDT'S STATEMENT. Mrs. Arndt, the wife of the prisoner, was found at the Victoria Laundry, where was found at the Victoria Laundry, where she is employed. Upon enqu ring for her the rep rter was introduced to a medium sized woman, about fifty years of age, with whitened hair and a face furrowed by She was at first unwilling to say much concerning her husband arrest, but finally made the statement that the report in The Bee con erning her husband's presence in the city upon te night Coo e! Smith was murdered was erroneous. She said that she never told any one that he came to the G. een Tree house and changed his boots upon that evening, as she was reported to have stated. She claimed that Mr. Arndt left the Green Tree house tated. She claimed that Mr. Arndt left the Green Tree house a week previous to the murder and went to Iows, whence he did not return until after Colonel Smith's rune. al was over. His business in Iowa was principally at Marshalltown, and he was there upon the night of November 4. She then said:

"The arrest and charge is a trumped up affair against Mr. Arndt by the officials who are incited to it by the Union Pacific Railroad company.

'My husban-l has been fighting the company through the courts for several years, and they are anxious to get him out of the way.'

When approached concerning her past life and former marriage relations she re-fused o tell anything, and became much excited. Sies id: "I c n't see what my aff-irs have to do with this matter. If anybody wants to know anything about my former husband and his death they'll have to go to the grave after it. I don't talk about my business. That's what's the matter with Arndt. He talks too much and is slways getting excited over things which don't concern him. All that has brought him this trouble has been his talk. He never hurt anyone and never wanted to fArndt hurt anyone and never wanted to. [Arndt is as well posted in law as any man in this city, and he knows too much to do snything that would bring him into trouble."

The tide of emigration to America on the part of the Swedes is manifestly an effort to better their condition, but n choosing a location these people are influenced to a great extent by religious sentiment. A striking proof of this fact may be adduced from the Swedish settlement of Kansas, Governor St. John in his lecture in this city, referred to the support which the Swedish settlers of Kansas gave to the movement to check the evils of Kansas, Iowa and Minnesota, are also operating in Nebraska. Through the exertions of the Rev. E. A. Fogelstrom in our city, thousands of Swedes have been attracted to Nebraska. His labors in behalf of his church have not merely efforts to manater to the spiritual wants of his countrymen, but the desire to build up a powerful congregation in Omaha that will in turn influence similar religious associations in the various counties. where Swedish Americans are located. Mr. Forelstrom found his church in Omaha burdened with a heavy debt, struggling for a mere exist-ence. By his energetic efforts, that burden has been lifted. Upon his advent in Omaha he could not get a hundred hearers, now his church, seating four hundred, is packed and crowds of people compelled to go away because they find no stand-ing room. In order to afford theorpeople a commodious place of worship the Swedish church society have bought a lot corner of 19th and Cass, upon which they design building a church edifice that will seat at least 1,000 people.
